"Balloon struck by lightning. Berry hurt. Come quick.—Morrison."

The balloon of which Captain Berry is pilot is the Million Population club of St. Louis. His passenger was George C. Morrison.

Morrison made no mention of the Million Population club's location.

It is thought here that if it was not wrecked in the dense forests of the western slopes of the Cascade Mountains it may have been stranded in the sparsely settled plateau that stretched beyond.

An hour after the first carrier arrived another piecon, minus its tall feathers, flew in. No message was attached to it. It is believed to have been loosed from the Million Population club. Nothing has been heard from the Kansas Chy III, piloted by from Watts and the Sprinfield, piloted by Eop Donaldson. New York, June 12.—With England in the role of challenger and the United States as defender, the first international trophy contest of 1914 will be staged at the Meadowbrook club, Westbury, L. L., tomorrow afternoon, when representative polo teams of the two nations meet in the initial struggle for the possession of the massive silver cup emblematic of world supremacy in the sport. As if to compensate for the disappointments and postponement that have marked the English efforts toward regaining this famous trophy, there is every indication of thrilling play on the velvet turf of the championship field, with the invading four having an even chance against the cup holders in the fifth series for the emblem first offered by the Westchester Polo club in 1886.

American Team Favorite in Betting.

Although the odds in the waspering favor the American team 7 to 5, this is due principally to the injuries and subsequent delays experienced by the English team rather than to any particular strength of the defending four over the challengers. Had the first game been played last Tuesday, as originally scheduled the two teams would have taken the field on virtually even terms so far as the wagering was concerned.

The physician who has been treating Captain Cheape's injuries stated today, however, that the British star will enter the game in condition to play his position without handicap. The other players, Captains Vivian Lockett and H. A. Tomkinson, together with Major F. W. Barrett, are reported to be fit for the hard struggle expected.
